Not illustrated. 1916 Excerpt: .to be made a desideratum among the peoples; a high standard of attainment in science, pure and applied, in medicine and in law, to be achieved. All this with a scrupulous regard for the feelings of the people. Such arrangements must be made that the orthodox Brahmin, the sincere Moslem, the devout Buddhist, the earnest Christian and steadfast Jew, the resolute Zoro. astrian, may all partake of the intellectual banquet without jostling each other, or of necessity neglecting the Vedas, the Koran, the sayings of the Master, the Gospels, the Hebrew Scriptures, the ZendAvesta. Among the myriads of India s population we find certain races, the autochthons of the land who, perennially depressed under the Brahmin dispensation, have for ages been regarded as outside the scheme of salvation. Hewers of wood and drawers of waters, the Paraiyas of Madras or the Dheds of Bombay convey a...
