Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Citizen, Jr. You will notice that the lessons in this book are grouped in pairs and that at the beginning of each of these groups there is a small picture. These pictures are different from the usual illustrations. They are for symbols, or guide signs, to mark the lesson groups and to remind you of the big, important thought that you work out there. If you would like to use these little symbol pictures to help you to make a notebook picture-record of your citizen progress and practice, your teacher can get them for you, printed separately, ready for you to use. Then you can earn them as you go along. Your teacher and you can work out the plan that you wish to follow in this way of using the pictures. Here are some ideas as suggestions. The symbol for Group I can be a special one to be awarded by your teacher when she notices some special citizen-progress or gain. It might be given when a member of the class reports some fine point observed in someone else's citizenship, or it might be received by the person whose citizen effort or conduct is reported in this way. It might also be gained by a good piece of work in the notebook record, or something special thought out or done. The other symbols you might earn by making a special note of something that you do to practice a lesson, or by your bringing to class some of the work suggested, or by memorizing the work that is assigned, etc. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic...
